

World Women in Neuroscience (WWN)

Awarding activities during calendar year 2025

Dr. Sareh Pandamooz

January 13, 2025

Dear Dr. Sareh Pandamooz

We are pleased to inform you that the committee of World Women in Neuroscience (WWN) in collaboration with the International Brain Research Organization (IBRO) has reviewed your proposal and approved an award of $ 1500 to partially support your “Challenges and Obstacles of Iranian Early Career Women in Neuroscience – Finding Solutions” for calendar year 2025. Due to budget constraints, we strongly encourage you to obtain matching funds from other sources.

WWN requests that the awarded funds be dedicated to defraying the expenses included in the submitted request. Please contact us, at least, one month prior the event, so that we can properly arrange for the transfer of funds. Kindly note that a minimum of 25 attendees is expected. When you contact us to arrange the transfer of funds, we would like an indication of how many attendees you are expecting.

Please be advised that WWN will expect to receive a written report at the conclusion of the event with the following information: attendee demographics; attendee career stage; photographs taken at the event; and feedback from the attendees. You will receive a Google form link to complete this report. Establishing a registration process facilitates collection of the information that WWN needs for their annual report. WWN staff will work with you to widely promote the event. Kindly contact us with marketing materials, when you would like to begin promotion.

Thank you,

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Emmeline Edwards, WWN Chair
Dr. Jean King, Co-Chair
